BEVERAGE RESEMBLING TEA MADE FROM CASSINA PLANT

Laboratory investigations by the bureau of chemistry, United States Department of Agriculture, have shown that a very delightful beverage resembling tea in many respects can be made from cassina, a wild plant that grows abundantly in the south Atlantic and gulf states from Virginia to Texas, when the leaves of the plant are treated by processes similar to those used in curing tea. The cassina plant has been used to a limited extent by Indians, and, during the Civil war when tea and coffee could not be obtained by people of the southern states to make a beverage. Unless properly cured, however, cassina does not make a good beverage.

It has been demonstrated in the laboratory that cassina could be treated by processes similar to those used in the tea industry and an excellent beverage made from it, work has been undertaken to produce it on a larger scale. An experimental plant has been installed near Charleston, S. C., and preliminary reports indicate that the laboratory results can be duplicated on a commercial basis.

Laboratory experiments have been conducted on the use of the hot-water extract of properly cured cassina leaves as a base in the production of carbonated beverages. Carbonated bottled beverages of three distinct types have been made in the laboratory from flavoring syrups containing cassina extract. Formulas have been prepared for the manufacture of cassina-flavored bottled sodas.

BEAUTIFUL WORDS ABOUT DEATH OF MISS BARNES

The Charleston (W. Va.) Gazette of December 18 had the following concerning the death of Miss Paulina Barnes, well-known in Mt. Sterling: "Miss Paulina H. Barnes, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Barnes, of the Ruffner Hotel, died at the Charleston General Hospital at dusk last night, after a heroic battle with death covering a period of six weeks. The end came at the close of a day in which everything known to science was done to save her life, and just a little after the darkness came she passed, ending one of the most tragic cases in the history of Charleston."

"Beautiful as are few girls, superiorly educated, only eighteen years of age, one of the most widely known and most popular girls who ever lived here, and one who reveled in the sheer joy of living, she was distinct in a city which has been famous for its beautiful girls for two generations. Her father, Mr. H. H. Barnes, is nationally known as a hotel man, and one of the most amiable in the country. Her mother, as Miss Rose Hudson, was a beauty of St. Albans of two decades ago and for generations her progenitors were gentle people. Miss Barnes was one of three beautiful sisters, the other two being Mrs. Charles Smith Decker, of New York, and Mrs. Lipscomb Norvell, of Beaumont, Texas. Her brother is Robert Barnes of Parkersburg, one of the most popular of the young men of Charleston when he lived here."

Miss Barnes was the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Barnes, who have lived here for three years. Her mother, however, was widely known in the valley for years, and when the family came to Charleston to live it was just resuming an old residence. Miss Barnes was educated in the public schools in Bluefield, Ursuline Convent, Cincinnati; Chatham School at Warrenton, Pa.; Stuart Hall, Staunton, Va., where she was graduated last year with honors, and Sweetbrier College, where she was in school when taken ill.

Mrs. Barnes, who has kept a constant vigil at the bedside of her daughter, was in a complete state of collapse last night and is being attended by a nurse, while Mr. Barnes and brother, who were with their daughter and sister, were both prostrated. Mrs. Charles Decker, of New York, will arrive today, but it is doubtful whether Mrs. Norvell, of Texas, will be able to come. Funeral arrangements have not been completed. The death of Miss Barnes, because of her personality, her position, her beauty and her culture, was a shock to the community and one of the most tragic incidents in the history of the city.

"Miss Barnes' illness, which resulted so tragically, dated from last summer, when a diagnosis indicated she was suffering from appendicitis. Only sporadic attacks influenced the physicians not to resort to surgery, and apparently in abundant health she entered Sweetbrier College, Sweetbrier, Va. She was taken ill late in October and her mother took her to a hospital in Lynchburg for an operation, but she recovered sufficiently to be brought home, and, on November 8, she was operated on at the Kanawha Valley Hospital. The operation seemed successful in every way, but she developed what is known as a stitch infection, something rare and a condition that does not develop once in a thousand cases. She showed indications of convalescing, but at no time was her condition such as to indicate an early recovery, although it was believed because of her splendid physical condition she could successfully combat the infection. But she grew gradually worse and, following a second operation of a minor nature, she was brought to her home in the Ruffner, where she showed improvement, probably largely psychological. On Friday night she suddenly developed three degrees of fever and the physicians then determined that another operation was necessary. She was taken to the Charleston General Hospital on Saturday morning and it was discovered that the infection had spread to such an extent that her recovery was doubtful. She had a sinking spell on Saturday night and she just hovered between life and death. On Sunday morning her brother, Robert, who had been called from Parkersburg, submitted to blood transfusion, but even this was in vain. She rallied following the transfusion, but then grew worse, and lacking the vitality which had been drained by weeks of illness and inability to retain nourishment, she died at the close of the day, the period when the vitality of human beings is at its lowest ebb. One of the physicians who had diagnosed her case and later attended her during her illness, best described her passing when he said: 'She was conscious to the last. But she was very, very tired, and not being able to resist any longer, she just fell asleep.'"

FARM AND HOME NEWS FROM OVER KENTUCKY

Twenty-two Crittenden county farmers and their wives are co-operating with County Agent John R. Spencer and the extension division of the College of Agriculture in keeping records on the number of eggs laid by their hens in order to show their neighbors how good feed and the right kind of care helps hens lay more eggs in winter.

Limestone as a means of building up soils and boosting crop yields is getting increased attention from Webster county farmers living in the Slaughters community. County Agent Lloyd E. Cutler says. Seven of them this fall ordered 80 tons which will constitute the first limestone they have ever used on their farms.

Demonstrations on striping and grading burley tobacco put on in Putnam county through the co-operation of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association and the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington furnished the means of showing scores of farmers in that section of the state how to strip and grade their leaf crop to the best advantage. County Agent W. C. Wilson says. A total of 63 farmers attended the six demonstrations held in different parts of the county.

Wayne county farmers are continuing to take steps for the improvement of their poultry flocks. County Agent H. J. Hayes says. Eight purebred breeding cockerels recently were placed on farms of the county while another model poultry house was completed.

Purebred livestock is gaining in numbers in Leslie county. County Agent T. H. Britton says. Four bred purebred gilts are among the latest additions to the list.

SALT LICK W. C. T. U. PASSES RESOLUTIONS

The following resolutions were passed by the W. C. T. U. of Salt Lick: Inasmuch as the violation of the 18th amendment has recently caused the death of three of our brave and noble citizens, Prohibition Officers Robert Duff, Owensville; David Treadway, Mt. Sterling, and Guy Cole, Bowling Green, and as the W. C. T. U. assisted in getting this amendment incorporated in our national constitution,

Therefore, Be It Resolved,
First—We pledge ourselves anew as a body to aid in the work of enforcing prohibition and in aiding the officers and citizens in their efforts to enforce the prohibition laws by any and all lawful means.

Second—That we deeply deplore the deaths of these three men who died in an attempt to uphold the laws of our fair land, the violation of which has again added the awful tragedy of bloodshed against the fair name of our beloved state.

Third—That we, the members of Salt Lick W. C. T. U., extend our most sincere sympathy to the bereaved families of these men and commend them to the Father on High in this sad hour.—Mrs. W. H. Dooley, president; Mrs. A. H. Points, secretary; Mrs. G. North, treasurer; Mrs. P. Jackson, press correspondent; Miss Louelle Kautz, corresponding secretary.

"Feeling Fine!"

"I was pale and thin, hardly able to go," says Mrs. Bessie Bearden, of Central, S. C. "I would suffer, when I stood on my feet, with bearing-down pains in my sides and the lower part of my body. I did not rest well and didn't want anything to eat. My color was bad and I felt miserable. A friend of mine told me of

CARDUI

and I then remembered my mother used to take it. After the first bottle I was better. I began to flesh up and I regained my strength and good, healthy color. I am feeling fine. I took twelve bottles (of Cardui) and haven't had a bit of trouble since."

Thousands of other women have had similar experiences in the use of Cardui, which has brought relief where other medicines had failed.

If you suffer from female ailments, take Cardui. It is a woman's medicine. It may be just what you need.

GRAYSON FARMERS ORGANIZE FOR IMPROVED DAIRY HERDS

A big step toward the building up of dairy herds has been taken with the organization of the Grayson County Co-operative Purebred Jersey Sire Association, according to County Agent R. W. Searce, who co-operated with the extension division of the College of Agriculture at Lexington in getting the association started. The 35 charter members of the organization, who are the owners of 152 grade and purebred Jersey cows, will gradually build up their herds for higher milk and cream production through the co-operative use of three purebred Jersey bulls.

D. M. Young has been made president of the association and W. J. Harrell, secretary-treasurer. The board of directors of the new organization is composed of these two men and W. R. Greene, J. F. Stone and T. A. Glenn. Practically all members of the association live in the vicinity of Leitchfield and Caneyville.

The three Jersey sires to be used by members of the association in the work of building up their herds already have been selected and brought to the county by a buying committee composed of Mr. Harrell and Mr. Young. Each of the animals, which were purchased in Christian and Todd counties, has a long line of high producing ancestors behind and it is expected that their use on dairy cows belonging to members of the association will have a marked effect in building up herds in this section. One of the sires has as his mother a cow that has not yet finished her register of merit test, but who probably will produce a total of 600 pounds of butterfat before her year's record is complete. The second sire's mother produced 336 pounds of butterfat as a three-year-old, while the mother of the third sire produced 585 pounds of butterfat as her official record.

The membership of the association will be divided into three districts, or "blocks," and one sire placed in each district. At the end of each two years, the three districts will exchange bulls, thereby making it possible for members of the association to have the use of a well bred sire over a period of six years at a comparatively small cost.
